

The Pastor's Wife

What does a Pastor's Wife do?

Prays for her husband diligently!

Answers the phone, his email and hers, too!

Scrubs and cleans, starches and mends, sings in the choir, subs at the school--just to get started with what she might do!

Teaches Sunday School--to the class no one else wants to teach, and then sits through every practice sermon the pastor must preach!

Office manager might be a good title, too; budget analysts might also do!

Reassures the Pastor that, “Yes, he is called by God” and “Yes his tie is straight“, and “Yes, today is the day and this is the date!”

Sits with the sick, the lonely, the shrew, sits with the mom who gave birth to two.

Washes and cleans and keeps the house straight,

Ignores the comments, like “She’s always five minutes too late!”

Forgetts hurtful words she overhears, like “Her children are noisy” or “Her hem is too short -- Oh dear!”

Every one loves the pastor’s wife here, and we know that she is the one our Pastor holds dear.

To Our Pastor's Wife,

You truly are a treasure. You are a blessing to us, and a gift in all the many roles you perform as our “First Lady”. Thank you for being the one that stands by his side, as he stands by ours.

Blessings Galore and Peace Evermore,

Sincerely
